Our Town

By GARDNER WHEELER

CRISP FALL DAYS—AND FOOTBALL. WELL, FOOTBALL, AT LEAST

IT'S NOW THAT TIME of the Smiths to the headlines, and the year when highly paid sportswriters pound out deathless prose about "the crisp, cool fall days" when good old Siwash and Oshkosh meet on the gridiron. For some reasons, football games are associated with snappy fall weather; a bit of imagery that was probably started by an Eskimo in Iceland who was referring to Iceland Rugby. The only way we can be sure that it's fall 'round and about our town is by looking at the calendar, although the temperature has dropped down into the nineties.

DESPITE THE LACK OF crisp, cool fall days, we are playing football at the local College and High School and are developing a habit of winning. This may set character building back a few notches, but the winning habit is very welcome indeed to all concerned, except the opposition. Your correspondent took a trip southward to Jamison stadium several times in the fast few weeks to watch the contests between the locals and the out-of-towners.

AFTER SAMPLING THE public pulse and temperature, we feel qualified to give our annual fall analysis of football. To start with, we found that 92 percent of the people think that the only one playing is the ball carrier. This illusion is furthered by sportswriters with graphic descriptions such as "Zilch carried for three yards, then Smith slanted off end for six. Zilch then banged over the last twenty for a touchdown." As a matter of fact there are ten other guys helping the Zilchs and better they do their jobs the further the Zilchs and Smiths run. It was ever thus, and the linemen can tell themselves that "Virtue is its own reward", as they relocate their teeth and rub arnica on their bruises.

WE NOTED THAT JAMISON Stadium has the finest lighting hereabouts. There are more watts glittering about the premises than at a Hollywood Premiere. As to the seating arrangements, we will admit they are stout, but about as relaxing as sitting on a rail fence. The designers of these seats must have come from a long line of midgets, or else they expected the spectators to spend most of their time standing. Sometimes the latter course is safest.

SPECTATOR ATTENTION TENDS to wander from the scene of action. During High School games young love seems to thrive, and young love and football just don't mix too well at the same time. You've got to make a choice, and love usually triumphs. Then too, the wits have to regale the crowd with the latest funnies. All this spectating causes a great hunger among the multitude, so most of the game is punctuated by starving teen-agers trekking back and forth from the snack bar like a trail of ants.

WE ARE LACKING THOSE fabled, crisp fall days and comfortable seats, but we do have good lights and some football teams that come to play with skill and rugged enthusiasm. For a moderate price, you can spend the evening sitting on a rail fence,

ARNETT CHARGES ESTES FAVORITISM

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 4 — Ray Arnett, Republican candidate for Congress, said this week the whitewash job done by the Democratic investigating committees in the Billie Sol Estes case "illustrates dramatically the need for a Republican Congress." Arnett declared that the Estes case presented "a glaring example of government favoritism, but that the Democrats have raised more questions than they have answered." He said a Republican Congress "would have gotten to the bottom" of the Estes mess.

Arnett brought the case close to home by charging that his opponent, incumbent Harlan Hagen, was tied into the Estes case by two checks, one dated September 25, 1961, sent to the "Treasurer, Democratic National Campaign" earmarked specifically for Hagen's campaign. A second, dated October 6 for $218.76, was sent directly to Hagen. This check was to pay for 25,000 reprints of a speech in the Congressional Record and mailed out under his franking privilege.

The GOP candidate asserted that although Estes had been charged with a serious violation of federal law, he was appointed to President Kennedy's cotton advisory council. Estes also was charged with $500,000 in illegal manipulations of cotton acreage, but the charges were dropped — only to be re-instated a month after his arrest.

Arnett declared that if he is sent to Congress he will support the investigation of governmental wrong-doing "without fear or favor."

CALIFORNIA SPEAKS

CLARENCE ELSTER, Cutten, on Cuba—"The other South American nations must think Uncle Sam is weak. Khrushchev said the Monroe Doctrine is dead and it looks that way."

ADOLPH ZUKOR, Hollywood movie mogul, on the value of education—"Rock Hudson could have been a hit two or three years earlier if he'd gone to Harvard."

KEVIN KEATING, S.F., on establishment of national lottery—"We already have one. Marriage."

CALIFORNIA SETTING FOR NEW BOOKS

Novels with a California setting are always interesting to our patrons. We offer you four new ones this week, the most important of which is THE SHATTERED GLASS, by Jean Ariss. This powerful novel, written from a woman's viewpoint, is a glimpse into the life of an alcoholic very far gone, but perhaps not too far gone to save. At least, that is what the woman who loves him thinks, as she immerses herself completely in his plight, neglecting her two children for her love. The action, in violent ups and downs, anguished, loving and desperate, is intensified by the direct, simple writing and by the author's device of stripping all the names from her characters. The scene is a California artists' colony.

A remarkable first novel, JEENEY RAY, by Iris Dornfeld, has some obscure California hills for its setting. This is a novel that tears at the heart with its portrayal of a spastic girl gifted with a fine mind and a dreaming imagination, but nearly doomed by the people around her, who think her a half-wit and who do not hesitate to tell her so. In a horror-filled sequence set in a small, grimy hotel where she is working as a maid, she is falsely branded as a prostitute, a black-maller, and a murderer. She is, of course, eventually rescued from her tormentors by someone who understands. Written as if through the young girl's eyes, in a clear, poetic style and with delicacy in spite of the sordid situations.

Set in the fabulous city of San Francisco is THE SAN FRANCISCANS, by Niven Busch, author of CALIFORNIA STREET which was published in 1959. The novel concentrates on the story of Laura Yarnum, the young and attractive widow of a great San Francisco banking magnate, who falls in love with the man she has every reason to hate. Gavin Courtney, a shanty Irish lawyer on the way up, sues the Yarnum family bank on a clever technicality. He also falls in love with Laura who apparently loathes him and the day he wins the case they become lovers. But since both pride themselves on their business acumen, they are unable to handle their personal relationship with equal finesse . . . The legal and financial transactions are interesting and lend weight to the story.

Beverly Hills is the scene of Margaret Millar's latest mystery story titled HOW LIKE AN ANGEL. A very tricky plot, extremely well done.

These books are available at the Porterville City library.

MRS. M. B. ADAMS, Alhambra, widowed working mother—"It is taking some senior citizens an awfully long time to realize that nowhere in the Bible, our Constitution, the church or any other authority I can think of are we guaranteed or promised an easy time of it in our later years."

CLEMENT B. REED, Alameda—"I once heard that the work of artists and similar craftsmen reflect the times in which they live. If this be true then our times are indeed shapeless and muddled."

Lesselli Marionettes Perform Oct. 20

PORTERVILLE, Oct. 4 — Two stories from childhood days, plus variety acts, will be presented by the Lesselli Marionettes, when they appear in the Porterville Memorial auditorium, Saturday morning, October 20, at 11 o'clock, under sponsorship of the Porterville branch of the American Association of University Women.

"Jack and the Beanstalk" will open the program, complete with a saucy Jack, a wicked Giant, and his kind wife, a hen that lays golden eggs, a harp that sings, and some famous well-remembered lines including "fee-fi-fo-fum, I smell the blood of an Englishman". The production has been carefully adapted from the original tale.

"Little Red Riding Hood" presents the well-known story, complete with the little girl, her sick Grandmother, the Woodsman who saves them, and the wicked wolf, but in this production the Wolf ends up running into the woods, completely reformed by his experiences.

The most famous scene from this production is climaxed by the famous remark "Grandmother, Grandmother, what big teeth you have" . . . Always guaranteed to create a breathless suspense in its audience.

The Lesselli Marionettes will introduce some of their own highly individual puppet creations when they perform the variety acts which traditionally close every Lesselli Marionette production.

Indians of the American desert area used the crushed bodies of the Black Widow spider to poison the tips of their arrows and spears.

"CAN I make it?", Jack asks as he surveys the beanstalk growing into the sky. This scene, from "Jack and the Beanstalk", coming to the Porterville Memorial Auditorium on October 20 is a delight to children who are familiar with the most famous climb in all of children's literature. The production is staged by the famous Lesselli Marionettes.

PIRATES SHOOT FOR THREE IN A ROW

PORTERVILLE, Oct. 4 — The Porterville College Pirates probably will be in the best shape of the season Friday night when they host the Sacramento State College junior varsity in a non-league game at Jamison stadium.

Coach Pat Mills said his players had received a good boost in morale from their come-from-behind 16-12 victory over Coalinga in the first Central California conference game. The Pirates now stand at 2-1 for the season, with a 26-0 victory over Antelope Valley college following their season-opener loss to undefeated College of the Sequoias.

Doug Wells, husky freshman right halfback, is the only doubtful starter for Friday night. He has been nursing a deep charley-horse injury received in the Antelope Valley game. Guard Bob Rogers, injured in the Coalinga game, was back in a suit on Wednesday.

Probable offensive starters will be Mel Brady and Bob Nuckols at ends, Mark Gartung and Don Shannon at tackles, Sam Ervin and Gordon Todd at guards, Phil Velie at center, Othel Pearson at quarterback, Kelton Dotson and Paul Floyd at halfbacks, and John Porter at fullback.

The strength of the Sacramento team is unknown, Mills said, but it is possible that some third string varsity players may see action for the visitors. Sacramento runs from a flanker-T formation.

Teams from the Bartlett junior high school in Porterville and the Earlimart elementary school will meet in a preliminary game at 6:15 p.m.

HARP IS $7.60 POORER, BUT WISER;
HE'S ONE OF THE SUCKERED PUBLIC

It all started two years ago. The big build up. Floyd Patterson, the cardboard champion, was fighting and whipping, not without some difficulty, people like

Roy Harris, Pete Rademacher, Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, and Brian London. With his head tucked neatly behind the gloves, Floyd of the China Chin moved about the ring with these second-raters with kangaroo-like leaps. Two things were typical of all of the fights. Patterson won each fight and every one of the challengers had the champion on the canvas some time during the fight.

Then a big scowling negro from the deep south came on the scene. Late of the state penitentiary via the armed robbery and assault route, Sonny Liston had decided to start earning his living legally. Coming up through the heavy-weight ranks Sonny blasted out an imposing string of KO's. Then two years ago he and the hoodlums who backed him decided he was ready for a championship bout.

"I wants to fight Floyd," he said.

Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager, threw up his hands and said, "Heavens to betsy, put this, this gangster in the same ring with Floydie? Never."

Then a big Swede named Johanssen got in the way. He came here and very thoughtlessly knocked our paragon of virtue down eight times in a single round and took the heavyweight title home to Sweden. This led to a long and lucrative delay in which Floyd and the Swede fought two more fights. Floyd won his title back with a knockout in the first fight and retained the title with a knockout in the second. The stage was set.

"I wants to fight Floyd", repeated Sonny of the scowling countenance.

"Never!" repeated Cus.

"Now, wait a minute here," said Floyd of the China Chin, with visions of sugar plums dancing in his head.

CANADA'S CONTRIBUTION to the 1962 Fresno District Fair is the famous Musical Ride of the Royal Mounted Police, scheduled as the featured event free grandstand horse shows Thursday, October 4, through Wednesday, the 10th. This schedule includes nightly appearances and one matinee on Sunday, the 7th. This will be the Mounties' first visit to central California.

And so the match was made. And it was a natural all the way. Good against evil. Floyd Patterson, the good and sensitive champion who really hates to hurt people and only keeps fighting because it beats shining shoes, against big, bad Sonny Liston, the man who robbed gas stations, beat up cops, chased lone women down freeways, and did a little boxing on the side.

Both men played their roles well during the pre-fight build-up. Liston ranted and raved and scowled properly. He said he was rooked in the contract because he was only making $400,000 for his evening's work. (How much did Lt. Colonel Glen make for his space shot?)

Floyd, the knight in shining armor, defended Sonny at each opportunity with such deep statements as "Aw, he ain't never had a

WHERE DO WE GO FROM HERE?

With the election coming up in November, the candidates are making their campaign appearances. It's time to take a good look at things and see where we are heading.

The present administration has veared to the left, bringing in a socialistic type of government. We can lean on one another to the point where we will all collapse — then what? The day of accounting will come . . . We can't spend ourselves rich . . . As long as we keep men in office who look for ways to spend our tax money we will pay the consequences. . . . So will our children!

Government is like a business: If one manager doesn't put it on a paying basis, the directors find a manager who will do the job.

The question is not who the man is . . . or how he parts his hair, or any such thing, but rather, will he bring back and preserve good government for and by the people. Will he stop the senseless spending and waste for which you and I are paying the bill.

The former generations were our founding fathers; they looked to the future generations and laid a good foundation.

This generation is ours. We

have made mistakes. We have built with hay, wood and stubble. But it is not too late to restore good government.

The next generation is for our children. Will we leave something for them to build on?

What we do at election time will be the deciding factor. What we do we must do well.

PERHAPS WE SHOULD TAKE THE ATTITUDE OF THE BRIDGE BUILDER

An old man, going a lone highway.

Came in the evening, cold and gray.

To a chasm vast and deep and wide,

Through which was flowing a raging tide.

The old man crossed in the twilight dim;

The sullen stream had no fear for him;

But he turned when safe on the other side,

And built a bridge to span the tide.

"Old man," said a fellow pilgrim near,

You are wasting your strength with building here;

Your journey will end with the closing day;

You never again will pass this

You've crossed the chasm, deep and wide,

Why build you this bridge at eventide?"

The builder lifted his old gray head,

"Good friend, in the path I have come," he said

There followeth after me today A youth whose feet must pass this way.

This chasm which has been of naught to me,

To that fair-haired youth may a pitfall be;

He too must cross in the twilight dim;

Good friend, I am building this bridge for him."

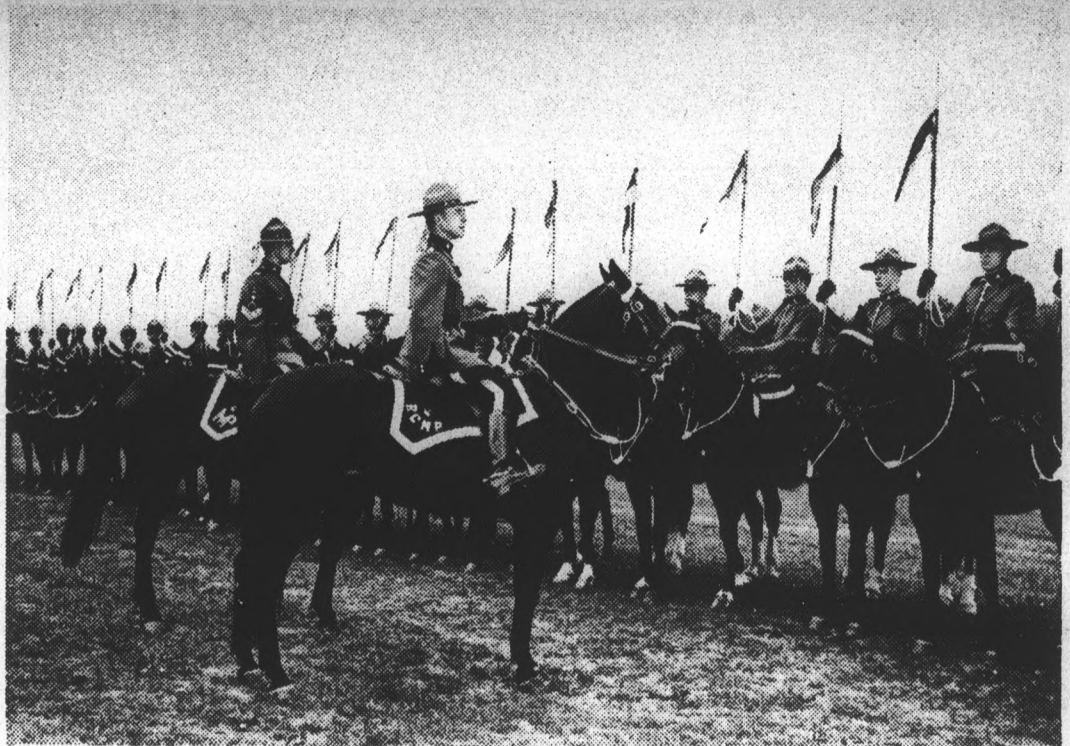

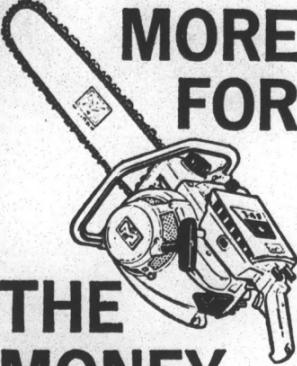

Like the bridge builder, we must build a good government. My appeal is not to parties, but to people, to parents . . . Not only for us, but for our future generations of children to come.

When you vote, vote for the future. When we explain to our children what happened, will we be able to look them in the face and say, "I have done all that I know to do."

Americans are privileged people . . . We can have our say in government . . . To do this we must vote.

Remember! Use your privilege!

chance," and "He's a completely reformed man."

And it worked. They suckered us in. They suckered us in to the tune of six million dollars. In Chicago's Comiskey Park better than thirty thousand people paid as high as $100 for a ringside seat and across the land better than eight thousand people paid $7.30 to $10.00 a seat to watch the bout on closed circuit TV.

The $7.60 ticket said that the fight was scheduled to start at 7:05. If we had paid $2.40 more for the $10.00 ticket they might have given us the correct fight time as we warmed the seat for fifty minutes before the fighters were brought to the ring.

The first and only round opened with big Sonny scowling properly and Floyd peering fearfully over his gloves which were tucked along each side of his delicate chin. Sonny cuffed Floyd playfully along side the head and tapped his ribs thoughtfully. Floyd made a kangaroo leap or two and returned to his hiding place. They played squat tag around the ring for a few moments and then all of a sudden Floyd decided that he was stunned. He reached out with his left hand and grabbed the top rope and Sonny tried to make it look good by tapping Floyd on the ear a couple of times. Floyd assumed a sleeping position on the canvas and failed to rise before the ring official had counted to ten.

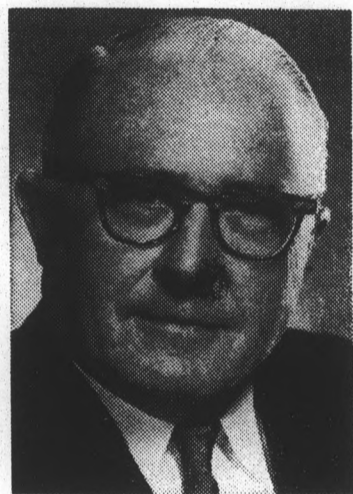

The count of ten was still echoing in the air when Floyd was up and brushing ring dust off his trunks and talking rematch. Sonny answered a couple of questions that tactfully required only yes and no answers and that was the end of the show. We took our ticket stub and went home, $7.60 poorer but wiser.

SCIENCE AND THE INVESTOR

Industry today has never been so science-minded. The billions of dollars channeled into research are sure proof of this. Nor have so many scientists ever dedicated so much brainpower and experience to basic research and the practical development of their findings.

We are experiencing a scientific revolution that will alter our world and our children's, a revolution that will make the industry revolution of the past century seem like a mere bump on history's road. Our scientists and laboratories are pouring forth more ideas, techniques, systems and products than any one man could ever fully grasp.

Much of today's research work, of course, is in support of the nation's defense and space programs. We are devoting billions of dollars to perfect new weapons' systems, to refine sensing equipment that now detect events happening thousands of miles away, to put a man on the moon.

But is there any practical applications for these far-out projects? No question about it — in many cases.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson has been quoted as saying, "It is estimated conservatively that our space outlays will yield $2 return for every $1 invested . . . Already the Weather Bureau estimates that the savings from our space advances in weather forecasting will soon run into billions annually. Just last year, the Tiros weather satellite gave three days' advance warning of Hurricane Carla . . . and this most powerful hurricane in a generation was one of the least costly in terms of human life or property damage. It may be 10 generations . . . before space science will enable man to reach the Milky Way. But it will not be 10 years before space science reaches into every home, every business, the life of every family on Main Street, U. S. A."

Such developments will create a richer America. An investment in American industry will create a richer investor. Are you an investor?

THE NAME of Porterville was again brought into the world of aviation when Joe Pfeifer acted as host for a meeting of Cross & Cockade and the American Aviation Historical society over the Sept. 22-23 weekend, with Pfeifer flying his antique airplanes for benefit of the visitors and newsmen. Included in the more than 200 persons coming to Porterville for the event were, from left, front row: Clyde Parsons, stunt pilot from Modesto; Charles T. Wrightson, of Fresno, oldest employee of United Air Lines, and one of America's first air mail pilots; Capt. Walter Adems, retired official of United Air Lines, and early-day trans-oceanic and air mail pilot; Capt. Rolly Ash, ranking jet ace of the Korean war and now stationed at Castle Air Force base with the Strategic Air command; Melvin Archer, pilot from Buttonwillow; and Marc Campbell, Lockheed official from southern California. Center row: Porterville Mayor Jack Letsinger; Pete Bowens, Boeing Aircraft engineer and nationally-known aviation historian; Ed. Clark, motion picture student pilot; Harold Mallett, of the H & M Tool company of Detroit, noted designer of multi-firing aircraft weapons; Orville Fleming, Merced banker and west coast representative of the Antique Aircraft association; Bud Fountain, air show pilot. Back row: Johnny Brentner, official of the Federal Aviation authority; Dick Corcoran, air show coordinator and crew chief from Pacific Palisades; Sonny Schubert, air show pilot; Major James Appleby, who brought his World War I German Fokker to Porterville for the event; and Ole Fahlin, noted designer of wooden propellers, who learned to fly with the Germans in World War I.

NEW BUILDING for the C. Jim Quinn company is now under construction on West Olive, next to Jones Locker, where Donald Jones is putting up a 3,600-square-foot structure for the tractor and farm implement company. Builder is Larry Hodgson, of Porterville Lumber and Materials; foreman is

"JANUS" REPRESENTS AN EVENING OF FINE ENTERTAINMENT AT BARN

By Bill Rodgers

If you are looking for a relaxing evening of good comedy, catch the Porterville Barn theater's production of "Janus", for here is a show that requires no mental effort to figure what it's all about, it has lines that are written for, and that get laughs, and it is peopled by a cast that is excellent.

First off, there's Nancy Lumley, who most certainly sets herself up as another Hossscar contender (she just won one for her work in the Barn last season.) Nancy has become one of the Barn's better troupers, and she makes real good looking at and listening to in this one.

Then there's Richard Newman, smooth, convincing, entertaining, although a little more sockeroo in some spots would be in order, and perhaps a little more rising to the crisis would raise the crisis.

In Oren O'Neill it would appear that the Barn has found another "natural". He stomps, waves his arms, is subdued by the illogical logic of a woman, becomes the picture of injured innocence, delivers some sharp lines like he'd been doing it all his life, and, by-an-large, acts just like a guy like him would act if he found his wife in the same situation that he found his. (Don't bother to reread that last line. You won't understand it anyway until you see "Janus".)

We feel that Arnold Bremler might have done a little more with his part, although he still does well enough. But maybe just a little more "ham", of the better variety that Arnold is capable of, would color up the role a bit.

Finally — Elizabeth Dobson — perennial veteran of the Barn, who directs "Janus", and plays a supporting role. Elizabeth has won so many Hossscars, she is always so much fun in a Barn play, that there is little praise we can give her that hasn't already been spoken or written.

Actually, we've seen Elizabeth sharper than she was in the second night of "Janus", but this does not surprise us, for we've noticed that often when one person directs and acts at the same time, the acting may become somewhat matter-of-fact.

But Elizabeth has most certainly done a fine job of putting a cast and a show together, and it may be that the real charm of "Janus" comes from what the coaches call a "team effort".

"Janus" should be classed as adult entertainment, although we suppose that if you brought the children, and they understood what "Janus" is all about, they would be adult enough to see it.

Which gets us to where we started. If you are looking for a relaxing evening of good comedy, etc. etc. etc.

VAN GOODMAN, business administrator at the Porterville State hospital, who has been elected president of the Tulare County unit of the American Cancer society. Second vice president of the county group is Dr. Warren Goux, of Porterville.

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 4 — Annual inventory from the air of duck population in the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys showed 670,000 birds, compared to 758,000 last year, according to California department of fish and game. Late nesting in the North is said to be the cause of the lower population.

Ronald Reagan Will Speak On "What's At Stake"

VISALIA, Oct. 4 — "What's At Stake", will be the subject of Ronald Reagan, motion picture and television actor, when he appears as principal speaker at a fund-raising dinner for the Tulare County Republican Central committee in the Tulare Memorial auditorium the evening of October 11. Serving will start at 7 o'clock.

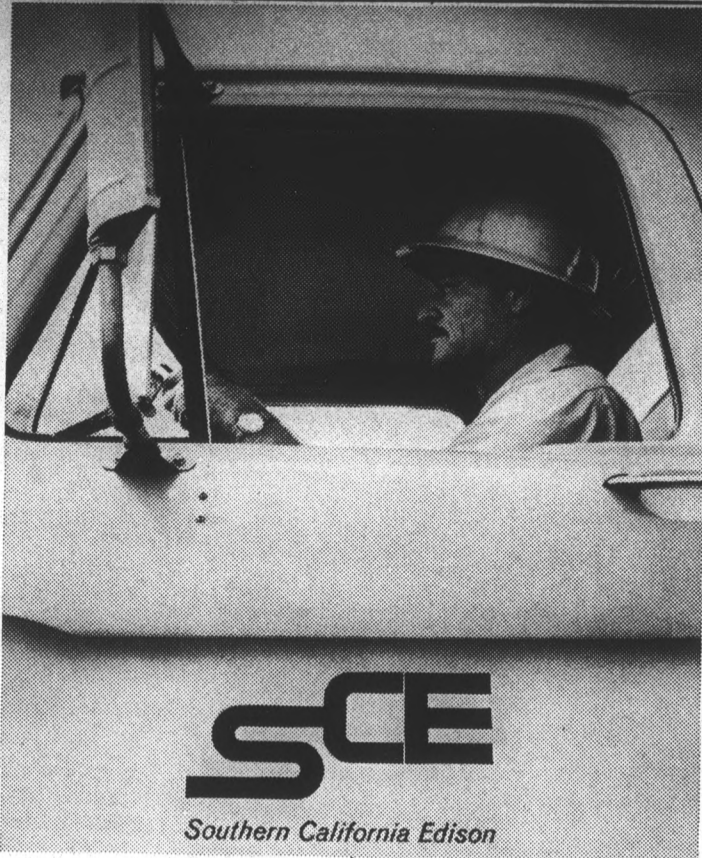

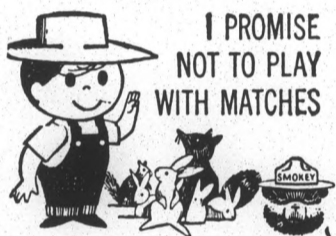

Also speaking briefly will be Howard Way, candidate for State Senate; Gil Swift, candidate for State Assembly; and Ray Arnett, candidate for Congress.

Presiding at the meeting will be Nat Bradley, of Visalia, chairman of the county Republican committee; introducing Reagan will be Bill Rodgers, of Porterville, a former chairman of the committee.

Dinner music will be provided by Organist Mel Salter; invocation will be spoken by the Rev. Allan Philp, of the Visalia Presbyterian church; entertainment program is being arranged by Loyd Culp, of Tulare.

A steak dinner will be served by Connie Kelley, of Tulare; general chairman of the event is Dr. A. B. Clark, assisted by Tom Porter, both of Visalia.

Tickets for the dinner can be obtained from members of the Republican Central committee throughout Tulare county.

"IT'S the same company, same name-only its signature has been changed", Roscoe R. Sparks, Porterville-Lindsay district manager for Southern California Edison company, said today in reply to questions about the "new look" on Edison trucks and advertisements. Cause of the queries, Sparks said, is that Edison is now putting its newly designed official signature, or trademark, on its trucks, office windows, publications and advertisements. The new trademark has Edison's initials, SCE, arrayed so that they appear to be a three-pronged electric plug and closely identify the company with its electric service product. The district manager said the new emblem was selected because of its contemporary design. It replaces the familiar script "Edison" emblem which has been in use many years.

..... in case of emergency illness or injury in which ambulance service, first-aid, rescue or oxygen service is required.

IMPERIAL AMBULANCE SERVICE maintains for your protection two fully equipped ambulances and four well trained men for immediate response twenty-four hours a day. Such protection is vital for the welfare of our community but it is also very costly to provide. These costs must be reflected in our charges for ambulance service.

Announcing the show will be Murray Ward; a greased pig contest for youngsters up to 12 years of age will be a special arena feature.

Sandwich and drink concessions will be open on the grounds; funds raised by the rodeo will go toward youth activities in the Springville community.

Far East; entertaining with his own act, and MCing the show will be Don Rice, who has been a headliner in supper clubs across the nation:

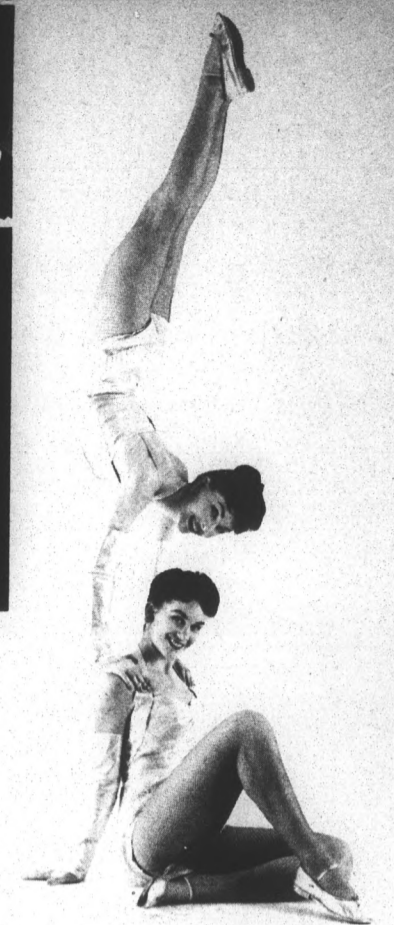

Jerry Rosen will bring his band from Hollywood to play the show, with Porterville's Hap Gragson stepping in on bass; the show has been booked through Gordon Radebaugh, of the Al Wager Theatrical agency in Hollywood.

Tickets can be obtained at Ross Jewelers, 327 North Main street, or can be purchased at the door. General chairman of the 1962 Kiwanis Kapers is Al Wise; Kiwanis club president is Dick Shaffer.

Sugar beet harvest is moving slowly in the San Joaquin valley.

Other acts will be: The Mulcavs, harmonica recording artists; The Kirkhams, masters of illusion; and Don Rice, who will double as master of ceremonies; plus Jerry Rosen's Hollywood stage band, with Porterville's Hap Gragson on the bass. Curtain time is 8 P.M. at the Porterville Memorial auditorium.
